These protectors are designed for maximum protection and comfort, making them an ideal choice for intense activities in demanding conditions. Robust construction and the use of the finest materials ensure effective protection, whatever the situation.

Soft inner padding for shock absorption

Effective protection in harsh environments

The protectors are made of durable materials such as polycarbonate and EVA foam, which provide excellent protection against impacts and falls. The hard outer shell disperses the force of impact, minimizing the risk of injury, making these protectors indispensable during dynamic field activities.

Wear resistance and durability

High-quality 1000D polyester, from which the protectors are made, ensures their exceptional durability and resistance to abrasion and mechanical damage. This makes them an ideal choice for those who need reliable protection during intense outdoor activities.

Versatility and easy fit

The protectors are universally sized, making them fit most users. Adjustable straps allow them to easily fit different types of tactical clothing, making them an extremely versatile piece of equipment. Whatever the conditions, these protectors guarantee full support and protection.
