Effortlessly connect it to your cell phone and access a plethora of templates via a dedicated app. Whether you need labels for clothing, prices, cables, jewelry, addresses or folders, the Extralink mini printer provides it all. Designed with convenience in mind, it supports labels from 20mm to 50mm wide, with a maximum print width of 48mm. Note, however, that it is not suitable for printing shipping labels.

Powerful, user-friendly application

The Extralink label printer stands out with its mobile app. This user-friendly platform offers a range of free label templates and even allows the creation of custom templates. The app supports label editing and creation, as well as the convenience of batch printing from an Excel file, increasing productivity. The printer is especially useful for businesses, streamlining label creation with ease and speed.

Efficient inkless printing

The Extralink printer provides smooth, fast and reliable printing. An adjustable paper feeder and automatic label identification system prevent paper jams and deflection, ensuring smooth printing. As a thermal printer, it operates without ink or ribbons, reducing the need for consumables and saving money. Note that the device only prints in black and white.

Stable Bluetooth connectivity

With the Extralink mini printer, connecting and printing is child's play. The device is equipped with Bluetooth 4.0 technology, which provides a stable connection at distances of up to 10 meters and connects in just 2 seconds. This feature is especially useful during busy periods such as Halloween, Easter and Christmas, helping the company operate more efficiently.

Advanced OCR function in the mobile app

The Extralink label printer goes beyond basic printing with an advanced OCR (optical character recognition) function in the mobile app. This feature can recognize text in photos within 4 seconds, allowing you to convert text in photos to editable text and print directly. This powerful feature increases productivity, making the label printer a valuable resource for any business.
