Construction of the Momcozy cover and breastfeeding

The design of the Momcozy product is based on an efficient blend of materials, consisting of 54.8% Acrylic and 45.2% Cotton. This combination makes the material suitable for sensitive skin, while still allowing it to breathe freely. This is especially helpful when feeding takes place on warmer days. Unlike accessories that use foam, this model focuses on the lightness of textiles. The cover is durable and retains a stable structure even when intensive feeding requires frequent use of the product.

Feeding pillow and cover - practical use

At home, a feeding pillow is often used to stabilise position, but out and about it is the cover that takes on the role of the main accessory. The product supports every feeding session, providing intimacy regardless of the surroundings. If a standard nursing pillow is not available, the Momcozy cover helps create the right microclimate for the baby. It is also helpful when the infant becomes distracted while feeding. The product supports feeding and is suited to the needs of mothers who value mobility.

Note when choosing a pillow and Bopp and Brest Friend accessories

When choosing a feeding pillow or other stabilising systems, such as Bopp or Brest Friend, it is worth paying attention to their functionality when travelling. While a traditional breastfeeding pillow often has foam filling, the Momcozy cover focuses on discretion and lightness. It can be used with a feeding pillow at the same time as the cover, which increases overall comfort. Even if the main way of feeding is by bottle, the cover helps calm the infant in bright and noisy places, serving as a practical protective blanket.
