Information:

Mould King 13209 is an advanced construction set with 1401 pieces, recreating the SF-24 racing car in 1:8 scale. The model stands out with a dynamic red-and-black colour scheme with blue wiring, an aerodynamic silhouette, a realistic front nose, rear wing, suspension, and wide rims with low-profile tyres. The manual steering system controlled by a gear on the roof, together with moving elements, increases realism and the satisfaction of building. With a length of over 58 cm, it is an impressive collector's model for motorsport fans, ideal for display.

Full product description

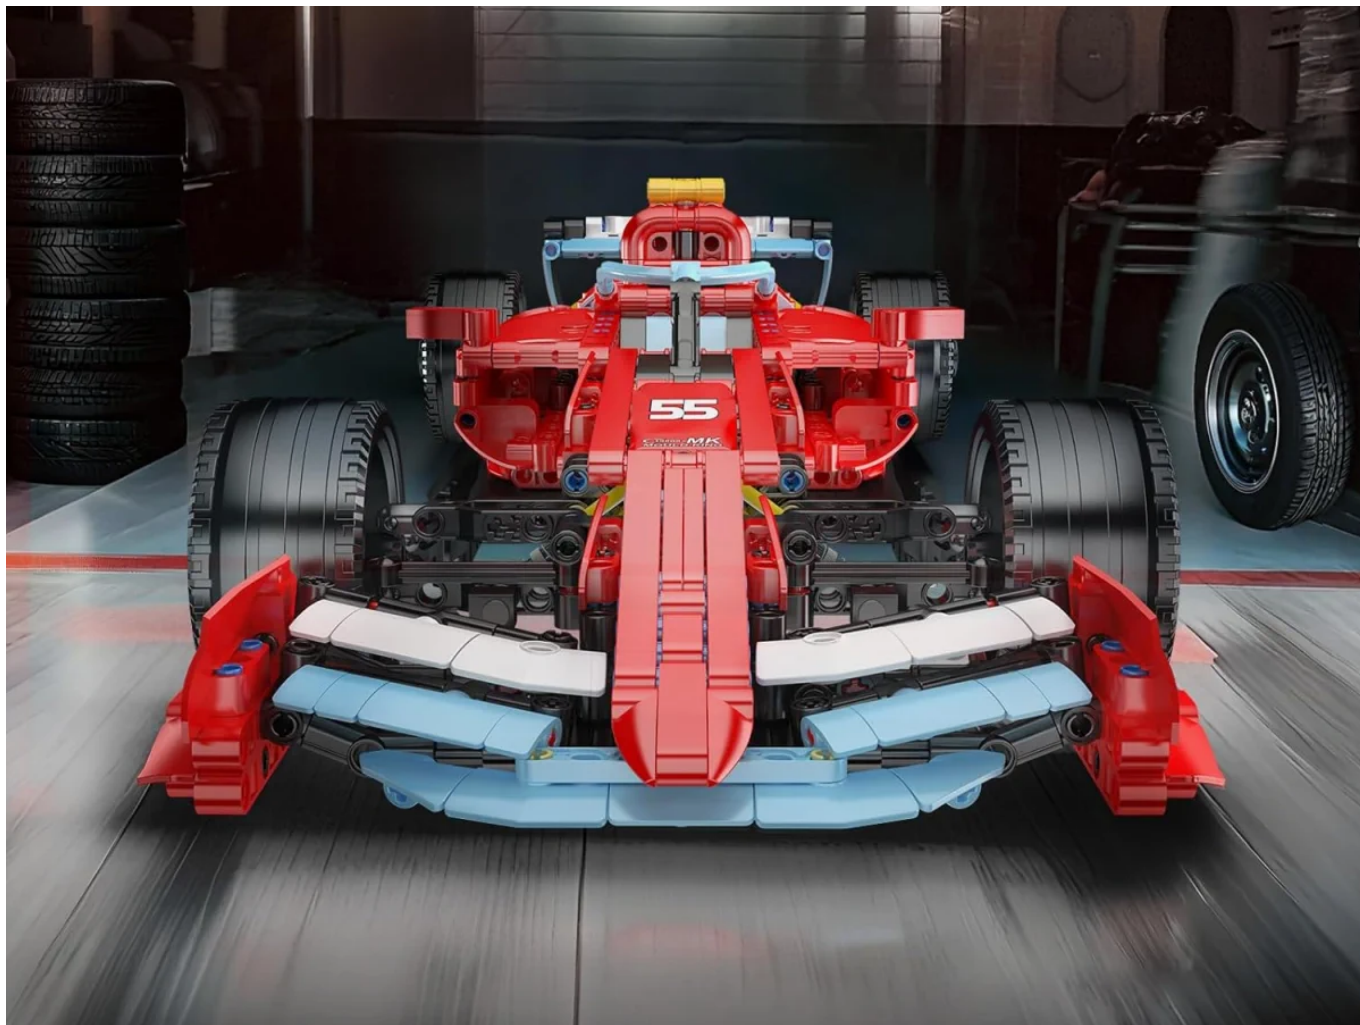

Racing car made of bricks

The Mould King 13209 set is an advanced construction model that brings the excitement of Formula racing straight to your shelf. Consisting of 1401 pieces, the design faithfully recreates the silhouette of the SF-24 car at a 1:8 scale. The red bodywork with black accents and blue wiring makes the build catch the eye of every motorsport enthusiast.

Key features of Mould King 13209

- 1401 precision pieces ensuring satisfaction from building.
- 1:8 scale allowing for impressive technical detail.
- Manual steering system controlled by a gear on the model's roof.
- Aerodynamic body line with a faithfully reproduced front nose and rear wing.
- Realistic suspension and low-profile tyres on wide rims.
- Set of sponsor stickers enhancing the vehicle's visual authenticity.

Engineering and model details

The construction offers a deep insight into vehicle mechanics and advanced technical concepts. The model, over 58 cm long, features moving structural elements that help in understanding how the running gear works. Thanks to the use of ABS plastic, all parts are characterised by a stable fit, which supports the creation of durable and complex aerodynamic forms.

Advanced display

This static collector's model has been designed with display in mind, offering textured tyres and a refined cockpit. The absence of power modules results in a higher level of internal detail reproduction, which adult brick fans will appreciate. A clear step-by-step instruction manual makes the process of joining the components easier, turning the build into an engaging construction challenge.
