Full product description

Indispensable comfort blanket for self-soothing

Providing a newborn with a constant sense of safety and comfort is the key to peaceful sleep and harmonious emotional development. The Momcozy comfort blanket in the shape of a cute pink elephant was created to help little ones self-soothe both at home and on the go. This unique sensory toy with soft 3D cotton quickly becomes a child's closest friend, offering soothing support at bedtime, during separation anxiety, or while resting during the day.

Closeness and homely warmth in every situation

The early stages of life are a time when a little one intensely needs stimuli that build a sense of stability. The adorable elephant comfort toy perfectly mirrors a parent's closeness, helping the child calm down in a bouncer, cot or during car journeys. The pleasant-to-touch texture of the blanket makes every moment spent playing or observing the surroundings under mum's watch completely stress-free, and the smile on the child's face is the best proof of complete comfort.

Practical dummy holder - cleanliness and peace on the go

Lost dummies are one of the most common causes of stress during family outings and naps at home. Thanks to the clever design of the Momcozy comfort toy, your child's favourite dummy can be permanently attached using a special tie that prevents it from being dropped. A little one lying on their back and snuggled up to their pink elephant always has easy and immediate access to the soother, which teaches independence and saves parents from constantly picking up and sterilising accessories.

Support for sensory development and perfection in detail

The comfort blanket is not only an aid for falling asleep, but also an excellent tool for stimulating a newborn's motor and cognitive development. The designers have taken care of the carefully embroidered elephant head, the safe soft fabric and the specially shaped knots placed on the corners of the blanket. These small elements are exceptionally easy for little hands to grasp, so they strongly support fine motor training, grip strength and hand-eye coordination.

Certified cotton friendly to sensitive skin

A newborn's skin requires uncompromising protection, which is why the pink fabric of the Momcozy comfort toy is made from the highest-quality pure cotton with the prestigious OEKO-TEX certificate. The material is incredibly gentle, fluffy and fully hypoallergenic, guaranteeing complete safety in direct contact with a baby's mouth – even when the little one cuddles the blanket during teething. This is an absolute must-have for every baby layette.
