Information:

MOULD KING 14002S KAR98K is a collector's construction model with 1117 elements, created for enthusiasts of historical replicas, military-themed items and larger brick-built projects. The brown-and-black colour scheme and slim, elongated form faithfully capture the character of the classic KAR98K, making the finished model look excellent on a shelf, desk or in a display case. The set offers engaging building with many details, and the final result works well as a striking collector's display piece and a decorative accent in themed arrangements.

Full product description

Collectable KAR98K model

MOULD KING 14002S KAR98K BUILDING TOY MODEL SET is a construction set for people interested in historical models, military items in collectable form, and larger brick-built projects. The brown-and-black colour scheme reflects the style of a classic replica well, and the long body makes the finished build look striking on a shelf, desk or in a display cabinet. This model is aimed primarily at building and display, so it fits well into collections of brick-built vehicles, military items and technical models.

1,117 building pieces

The set consists of 1,117 pieces, allowing you to build an elaborate model with a slim, elongated shape. As you assemble it, successive parts of the structure take shape, from the main body, through the body details, to the strap visible on the finished model. This number of parts makes the build engaging and requires concentration, while also delivering a clear result at every stage of the work. It is an option for people who like models with a specific theme and a strong display character.

For building and display

The KAR98K brick-built model works well as a decorative element in a collection, especially for those who choose constructions inspired by history, games or military styling. Dark details, brown body elements and the long line of the model create a cohesive look without the need for unnecessary embellishments. Once assembled, the model can be placed in a workshop, collector's or themed arrangement, where it will serve as a strong, recognisable accent.
