Information:

The Extralink Home set is a practical pair of pizza peels that make it easier to lift, carry, remove from the oven and serve both raw dough and the finished bake. Inserted under the pizza from opposite sides, they create a wide, stable support, increasing convenience and reducing hand contact with the dough. The semi-circular working parts made of stainless steel have a smooth surface that makes it easier to slide the pizza off and clean after use, while the black plastic handles provide a comfortable grip. The compact design is ideal for the home kitchen and for serving pizza at the table.

Full product description

Efficient pizza lifting

The Extralink Home set consists of two paddles that can be slid under the pizza from opposite sides. Joined surfaces create a wide support, helping to lift raw dough comfortably and transfer it to the oven. This design reduces the need to handle the pizza directly with your hands.

Convenient carrying

Two independent paddles make it possible to carry a larger pizza together between the worktop, oven and table. The semi-circular working parts support the bake from both sides, helping to keep it stable. This solution is ideal when preparing homemade pizza for family or guests.

Serving straight to the table

The paddles can also be used to serve the finished pizza. Positioned on opposite sides, they create a surface on which the bake can be carried and conveniently placed on the table. The wide, flat elements help keep the dough level while serving.

Removing from the oven

The flat edges of the working parts make it easier to slide the paddles under a baked pizza. Two handles allow you to control its position while removing it from a home pizza oven. Before use, make sure the handles are not hot, then exercise caution when working near a hot surface.

Stainless steel

The working parts are made of stainless steel, while the black handles are made of plastic. The smooth surface of the paddles makes it easier to slide the pizza off and remove any residue after use. The compact design allows both items to be stored conveniently together with other kitchen accessories.
