Information:

The Zero Gravity massage chair provides comfortable relaxation and even pressure distribution, while the telescopically extendable leg section adjusts to the user's height. It offers neck, back and waist massage, 18 air cushions, foot massage rollers and a vibrating seat massage, supporting relaxation of the whole body. Back heating helps to loosen tense muscles, and the large touch panel makes it easy to operate the programmes. In addition, Bluetooth lets you listen to music, and the blue Breathing Light illumination creates a calm, relaxing atmosphere.

Full product description

Zero Gravity position

The Zero Gravity design allows the chair to recline and adjust the massage angle to your preferred resting position. The correct body position helps distribute pressure evenly across the backrest and seat, promoting relaxation during the session. The telescopic leg rest lets you adjust the support length to suit the user's height.

Neck and back massage

The kneading mechanism covers the neck, back and waist area, helping to relax parts of the body exposed to tension after work, travel or exertion. The massage movements can be combined with chair angle adjustment to choose a comfortable position for the selected area. The available modes allow you to change the character of the session depending on your needs.

18 air cushions

The air massage system uses 18 cushions distributed throughout the body. The alternating inflation and deflation of the cushions gently presses on individual areas, supporting a feeling of relaxation. This function complements the kneading and roller massage, creating a multi-zone session without the need to manually change position.

Rollers and seat massage

Built-in rollers massage the soles of the feet while you rest in the chair. The seat also offers a vibrating massage for the buttocks, adding gentle vibrations to the session. Combining both functions allows the lower body to be massaged and works well for both a short break and longer relaxation.

Back heating

The back heating function provides pleasant warmth that can help relax tense muscles. Combined with kneading massage, it helps create comfortable conditions for rest after work, exertion or a long journey.

Large touch panel

The built-in touch panel allows you to select programmes and operate the available massage functions from one place. The clear control layout makes it easy to adjust the session without interrupting your relaxation.

Bluetooth and lighting

The Bluetooth module allows music to be played from a compatible device during the massage. The blue Breathing Light illumination placed on the sides of the armrests creates a calm visual setting and emphasises the relaxing character of the session.
