Construction, adjustments and technologies - Ergonomic support and Mesh

The construction of this carrier is based on cross-strap X-shaped webbing, which allows the child's weight to be evenly distributed across the caregiver's back and shoulders. The Momcozy BC001 model has built-in lumbar support made of EVA material, which minimises strain on the spine during long periods of carrying. The use of textile materials and Mesh elements ensures proper air circulation, preventing overheating. Three-stage adjustable straps and waist position adjustments allow the design to be smoothly adapted to the dynamically changing body of a growing toddler.

Everyday use - Practical Momcozy carriers

This Momcozy baby carrier is a helpful accessory in situations where a parent needs free hands to do household chores or move around in places inaccessible to pushchairs. The Baby Carrier Newborn to Toddler model supports the physiological development of the child by encouraging a safe M-shaped position of the hips and spine. Soft padding around the leg openings protects delicate skin from pressure, ensuring stable support of the passenger's body in the front-facing position.

Safe and comfortable buckles and stable fastening for Newborn

Safe use is guaranteed by a fastening system based on durable buckles that prevent the straps from accidentally coming undone during movement. The Momcozy Baby Carrier Newborn product allows the baby's back to be positioned stably, which is crucial in the first months of life. Thanks to its easy care, the cotton material can be machine washed without any problems, making it easier to maintain the proper level of hygiene during intensive use by a newborn and an older child.
