Construction, adjustments and technologies - Ergonomic support and Mesh

The construction of this carrier is based on cross-over X-shaped straps, which allow the child's weight to be evenly distributed across the caregiver's back and shoulders. The Momcozy BC001 model has built-in lumbar support made of EVA material, which minimises strain on the spine during long periods of carrying. The use of textile materials and Mesh elements ensures proper air circulation, preventing overheating. Three-stage adjustable straps and waist position adjustments allow the structure to be smoothly adapted to the dynamically changing body of a growing toddler.
