Full product description

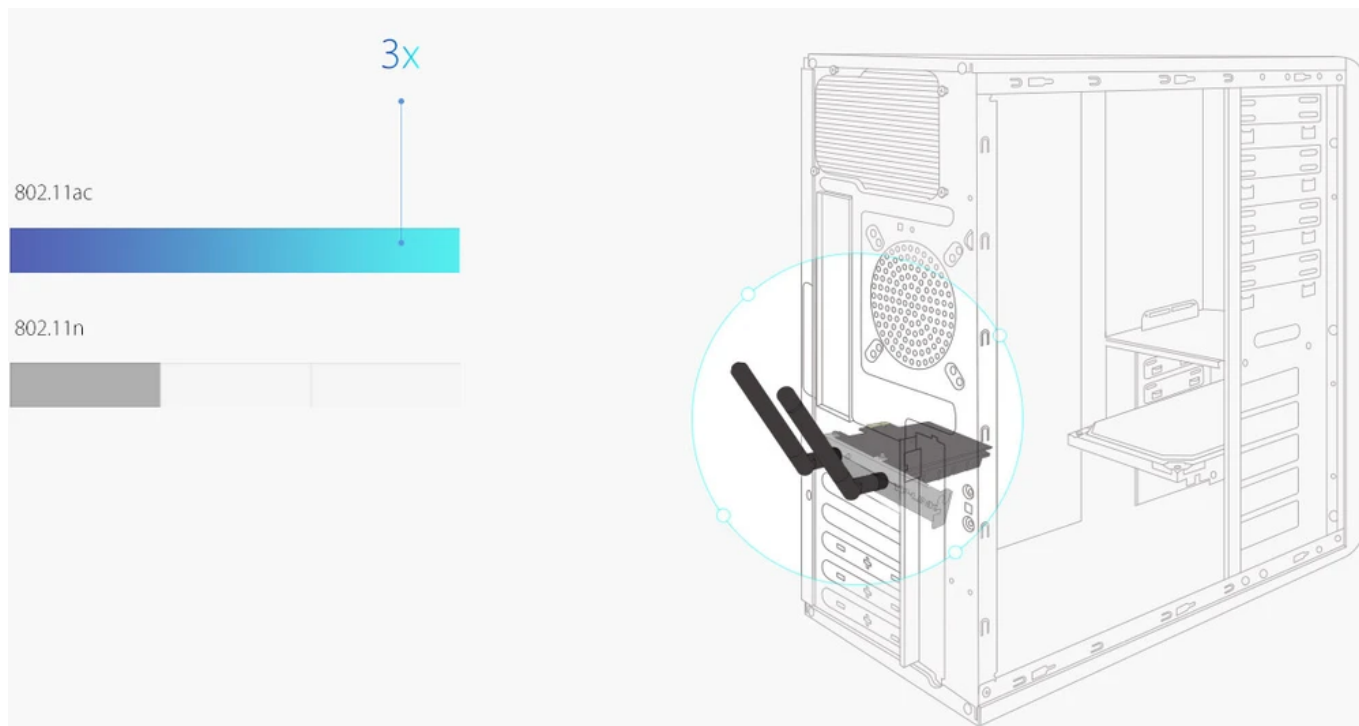

Dual Band Wireless Network Card

TP-Link Archer T6E is a wireless, dual-band network card that can reach speeds up to 1300 Mbps, i.e. 867 Mbps in the 5 GHz band or 400 Mbps in the 2.4 GHz band. The card operates in 802.11ac standard, providing 3 times faster connections than 802.11n standard, making it ideal for intensive network use. It is compatible with devices operating in 802.11 a/b/g/n standards. Two external antennas provide a wide range.

The new generation of wireless connections

Archer T6E from TP-Link is a network card that supports 802.11ac connections, i.e. at a speed three times faster than 802.11n standard connections. Already improve your computer by placing the PCI-E Archer T6E card in the slot.

Two wireless transmission bands

The Archer T6E device allows you to use two transmission bands. The 5 GHz a speed 867 Mb/s band is used for applications such as HD video streaming and online gaming, while the 2.4 GHz speed 400 Mb/s band is ideal for everyday use, such as browsing the web.

Stable network card

The Archer T6E uses a heat sink to dissipate heat, which guarantees a lower temperature. This allows the device to work long and trouble-free.
