Information:

The Extralink 1U cable organiser is a practical accessory for 19" rack cabinets, designed for neat and orderly routing of patch cords between network devices such as switches and patch panels. Mounted flush to the rack rails, it occupies 1U and is equipped with 5 metal brackets that make it easier to insert and route cables. It allows cables to be routed horizontally from one side of the cabinet to the other, as well as neatly organising cables coming out of the ports of active devices. It is suitable for both copper and fibre optic cables.

Full product description

Extralink 1U cable organiser with metal clamps

Cable organizer designed for 19" racks, allows to run patchcords connecting individual network components like switch or patchpanel. Similarly to many network devices, it is mounted butt mounted to rack rails and occupies 1U. It is equipped with 5 mental supports that allow easy cable entry. Organizer allows you to run horizontal cables from one side of the rack to the other or aesthetically arrange the cables coming out of the active device ports. It can be used with both copper and fiber optic cables.
