Information:

DIXIX Ionic EB-892 is a handy, lightweight ionic massager for daily facial care, powered by one AAA battery, ideal for use at home and while travelling. Negative ion technology supports better use of active ingredients from creams, serums and masks, while gentle vibrations help stimulate the skin, supporting microcirculation and giving the complexion a fresher, more radiant appearance. The profiled spoon-shaped tip makes it easy to spread cosmetics evenly and massage the cheeks, forehead, chin, jawline and eye area comfortably.

Full product description

Handy massager for everyday care

DIXIX Ionic EB-892 is a compact ionic massager designed for facial skincare. Its lightweight design and power supply from a single AAA battery allow convenient cordless use – both at home and while travelling.

Support for cosmetic products

Negative ion conversion technology helps make better use of the skincare ingredients contained in creams, serums and masks. As a result, the massager can become a practical addition to your daily facial care routine.

Combine massage with your favourite skincare product

A small amount of your chosen cosmetic product can be applied to the shaped tip of the device. The massage helps spread the product evenly over the skin and allows you to combine skincare with a pleasant relaxation ritual.

Gentle vibrating facial massage

Low-frequency vibrations gently stimulate the skin and support its microcirculation. Regular massage may help achieve a rested, refreshed and more radiant complexion.

Spoon-shaped shaped tip

The ergonomically contoured tip makes it easy to guide the massager across the skin. Its shape allows care for the cheeks, forehead, chin, jawline and delicate eye area.

Care for different areas of the face

The massager can be guided along the natural contours of the face, focusing on selected areas. Its slim design sits comfortably in the hand, making it easier to perform smooth movements on the cheeks, forehead and along the jawline.
