Ergonomic chair design

The contoured seat and high backrest help maintain a comfortable position when using a computer. The chair is equipped with a neck cushion and a lumbar cushion, which support key sections of the spine. Adjustable armrests allow their position to be adapted to the user's height and sitting style.

- Bucket seat helps stabilise the body.

Materials suited to everyday use

The chair seat is filled with resilient, deformation-resistant foam, which helps maintain comfort during longer periods of sitting. The upholstery combines breathable fabric with easy-care faux leather. Carefully finished stitching emphasises the gaming character of the model.

Stable support during gaming and work

The bucket shape of the backrest and seat helps maintain a stable position at the computer. The metal five-star base ensures proper support for the structure, and the gas lift allows smooth height adjustment. The chair's maximum load capacity is 150 kg.

- Five-star design distributes the load evenly.
- Gas lift allows the seat height to be adjusted.
- Maximum load of 150 kg makes the chair suitable for a wide range of users.

Chair for gaming, work and relaxation

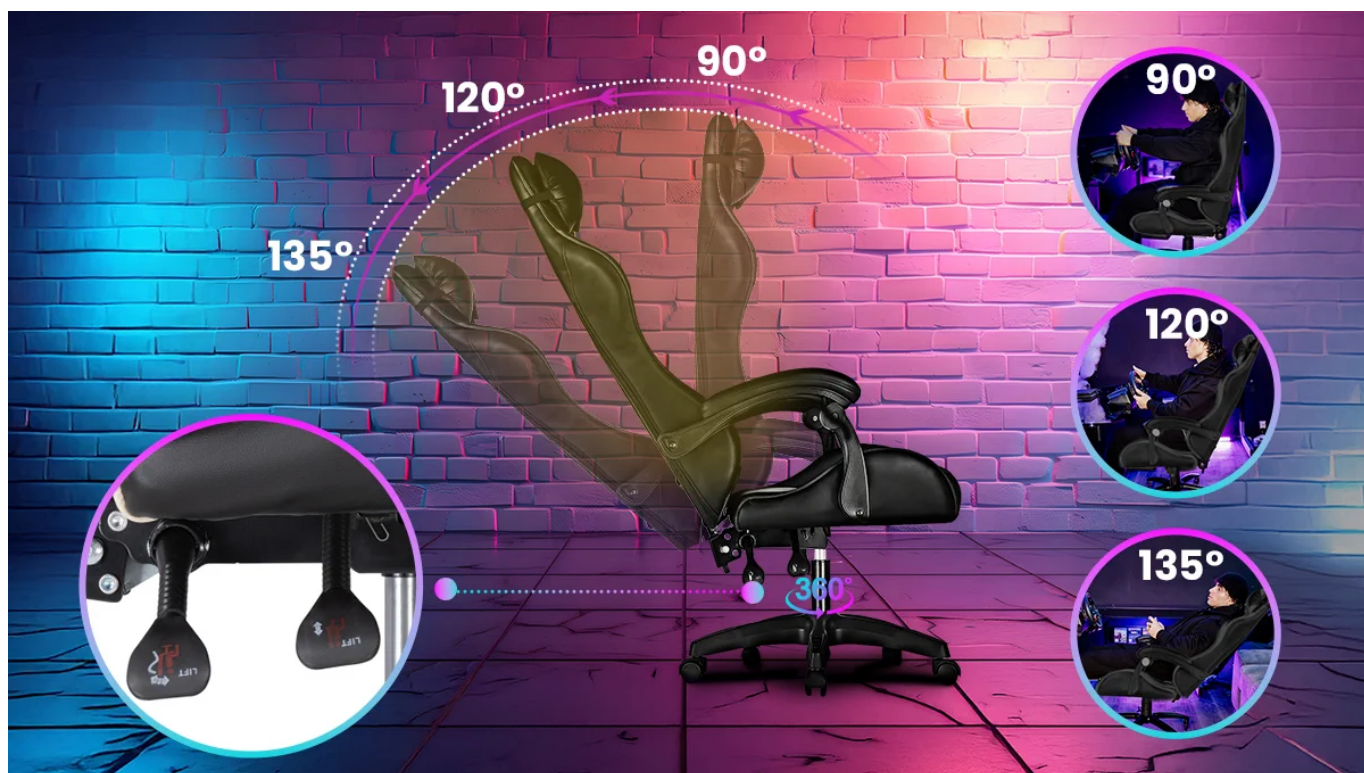

The Extralink G-524 can be used with a desktop computer, laptop and while playing on a console. The reclining backrest allows you to change position depending on the activity - from focused work, through gaming, to watching a film or taking a short break.

Adjustment tailored to the user

The adjustment mechanisms allow the chair to be set to suit the user's height, desk and preferred sitting position. The backrest can be set at approximately 90°, 120° or 135°, making the chair suitable for work, gaming and relaxation. The overall height range of the chair is from 112 to 122 cm.
